

Growth, new markets, and a bit of banking support

Leonie Schneider

l.schneider@globex-toys.de

An: Michael Berg <michael.berg@commerzbank.com>

Tue 22/09/2026 09:14

Dear Mr. Berg,

I hope you're doing well. It's been a while since our last proper catch-up, and quite a lot has changed at our end since then.

As you may have seen from our recent figures, we've had a strong couple of years, in particular with our expansion into Canada, and our Educational Computer Games line has really taken off. At the same time, we're feeling some growing pains: our supply chain is a bit more complex than it used to be, we're weighing up an investment in additional production capacity, and honestly, keeping track of everything internally has become more work than it used to be.

Could we get some time in the diary for a proper review before the year is out? I'd like to walk through where we stand – currency exposure, financing options for the planned capacity expansion, and anything else you think we should be looking at given how the business has developed. Also, if there's anything we can move to self-service on the day-to-day banking side, that would free up some time on our end – though for anything involving real decisions, I'd still rather talk it through with someone directly.

Happy to do this by video call if that's easier, sometime in the next couple of weeks.

Best regards,

Leonie Schneider

Head of Finance & Strategy, Globex Toys GmbH

Client correspondence – forwarded internally for review. Figures and details are illustrative, prepared for training purposes.